

Dear Colleagues from the European Network of Regional Labour Market Monitoring, as discussed at our annual meeting in Dublin, one of the topics in focus for the coming year will be 'information systems' which are in use/ in operation for regional labour market monitoring. As we have heard from you, in a lot of projects and regions such systems are in operation. They provide access to data and information via the web and are either open for specific users groups or general public. For getting started on this topic we would like to get a general overview on how many of this information systems do exist, what data do they provide, who are the users and who operates them. Please support us in collecting this information. If you use or operate such regional oriented information system or if you know a third party having such a system, please answer the questions below until the 15th of December 2008.

1. What is the name of the information system
2. Who operates the system?
3. What data and information is provided: regional labour market, labour supply and labour demand, qualification needs,?
4. Who are the users of the data and information?
5. Do you have further information on the system?

Thank you very much.

With kind regards,

Alfons Schmid, Christa Larsen, Jenny Kipper

P.S. If you do not want to get information from the network, please let us know in writing a short mail to: Kipper@em.uni-frankfurt.de
